MORNING WORSHIP FOCUS

The resurrection calls us to consider something that is completely against our whole experience of life. That is why it was so hard for the followers of Jesus to contemplate it. As Luke tells us, those who witnessed the unexpected scene at the tomb were brought to wonder at what had happened. They knew what they were coming to the tomb to see and then they were left to contemplate a knowledge they didn't possess. This is resurrection. It is not a natural knowledge of our heart or mind, but it is a supernatural gift of God. He must reorient our hearts and minds to think in the terms of resurrection so that we might live in him. This is the joy of Easter.
