Worship Focus

Last week we considered how the Apostle Paul was passionate about fulfilling his calling to preach the gospel and plant churches, and how as he struggled in the work, Christ's energy was so powerfully working in him and through him so that his efforts were so wonderfully fruitful. Today we look more specifically at that power, which he calls "the power of his resurrection." We need to "know" that power in our own lives in order to be spiritually fruitful. How do we "learn" it, so that we experience it ourselves more and more as each year passes? That is an important question to answer as we set our minds on fulfilling our mission statement.
