

What's New in the Library?

This newsletter comes out on Easter Sunday, so we will be keeping some of the Easter material on the library cart for a few more weeks, including The Case For Easter by Lee Strobel. In his usual hard-hitting journalistic style, Strobel probes the core issues of the resurrection – is this a superstitious myth or life-changing reality? The evidence is presented – the verdict is up to you.

The following new material will also be featured:

BOOKS:

One Perfect Spring by Irene Hannon – Claire Summers is a single mother who's doing her best to make ends meet. Keith Watson is a philanthropic workaholic who fields requests for donations. But when a letter from Claire's 11-year-old daughter reaches his desk, asking for help in finding the long-lost son of a neighbor - everything changes. Who could have guessed that a child's kind-hearted request would bring love and hope to so many lives . . . including his own?

Home Run by Travis Thrasher – Baseball star Cory Brand knows how to win. But, off the field, he's spiraling out of control. Haunted by old wounds and regrets, his future seems as hopeless as his past. An inspirational story of the hope God offers each of us.

For Teens:

Double Date by Melody Carlson – Five high school friends are sworn to secrecy – and purity – when they start a club called The Dating Game. The Christmas Ball is coming up, and everybody in the DG club is thinking about how to organize a double date. But how can they get guys interested in a dance that's no longer considered “cool”? (This book is part of “The Dating Game” series . . . we'll order more if any interest is shown.)
